

FOREWORD

On October 18th, 2985, Jekotia launched the single largest military operation their planet will ever know, codenamed Operation TOVR. The diversion and mobilization of thousands of soldiers and assets. The desperate attempt to turn the tide of a losing war. A final fight for survival, and the devastating failure.

What follows are the stories of the heroes of Jekotia and Bren. Soldiers that gave up everything for their nation, and went above and beyond the call of duty. Their triumphs, their failures, their victories, their losses, and their unwavering commitment to their nation. And to honour the Jekotian spirit flowing through this planet.

“Jekotia will never die. Our spirit is steel, our will stone. While we can be destroyed as a nation and a force, our people will always carry on the unwavering dedication of our nation. They will fight for our Jekotia, whether it is dead or alive, and be proud of their heritage. Why? Because we are the embodiment of hope, of steel spirit and of stone will. We refuse to die. We will not die. We cannot die.”
